Call for applications

Having been established in 1966, the competition constitutes the historical basis of the Biennale Internationale de Vallauris - Création contemporaine et céramique. It is intended to encourage, to make known and to reward European talent, drawing upon the reputation of the event and of Vallauris, itself a ceramics town, in order to facilitate their recognition.

The competition is reserved for candidates who are nationals of a member country of the European Union. After a selection made by a jury consists of personalities and professionals from the field of arts and ceramics, it gives rise to an exhibition at the Musée Magnelli, musée de la céramique, to a publication in the catalogue of the Biennale and to the award of prizes:

- Grand Prix de la Ville de Vallauris of a value of Euros15,000 covering all categories
- Three Prix Ville de Vallauris Golfe-Juan of a value of Euros5,000, or one per category
- Prix Jeune créateur (moins de 35 ans) ["Young artist"], of a value of Euros3,000

Three categories have been created in order to reflect the diversity in the current use of the medium of ceramics: "Containers" / "Sculpture" / "Design"

The category « Design » has been rethought for this year. The designers are invited to present, for the selection jury, a project not yet produced. The schedule for the competition has been modified in order to provide a longer time to produce the prototypes in ceramics presented to the award jury. On the other hand, the selected designers could get in contact with ceramists working in Vallauris to produce these prototypes.

Deadline : 15 september 2015
